

Big news!

Over the weekend, First Shift hosted its first attorney volunteer training for its new sexual harassment helpline! First Shift attorney volunteers will provide women with the support they need to report sexual harassment. According to the EEOC, about 70% of women who experience workplace sexual harassment never report it.

Unfortunately, too many women endure the harassment and/or quit. It is extremely difficult - and in some cases, impossible - to succeed in a legal case if the harassment wasn't reported in the first place. First Shift's objectives are to help women report the harassment and maintain employment whenever possible . . . but also to make sure women have the strongest cases possible if it becomes necessary to take legal action.

We'll be launching this project in the coming weeks! Thank you to the Women's

Bar Association Foundation for funding this project and Outten & Golden LLP for hosting our training!
